

2

100% practical

THE ART OF PAINTING

From A to Z
Anatomy . Proportions .
Perspective . Form...
*All of the rules
you need to know*

Portrait

The definitive guide

Painting

WATERCOLOUR • OIL • DRAWING • PASTEL • ACRYLIC

PORTRAIT BASICS

- Getting the flesh tones right
- Painting with a live model
- Representing the ages of life
- Ethnic portraits

500
TIPS & HINTS

Everything you need to know about:

- ✓ Realism and resemblance
- ✓ Successful portraits
- ✓ Facial expressions

45 step-by-step demos to help you progress

PRICE FRANCE/ANDORRE : 12,50 EUR - BELUX 12,90EUR - ESP/PT/GR/NL/PORT CONT 13,50 EUR - DE 14EUR - USA 21,99 USD - UK 12 GBP - CANADA 20 $CAD

ISBN 978-1-916023-40-6

9 781916 023406

500 HINTS to keep

PORTFOLIO 6

PORTRAITS
■ Henry Yan, Anna Ivanova, Ann Kullberg, Liu Yi, Mario Robinson, Stephen Scott Young, Christine Mergnat, Trevor Osborne, etc.

THE BASICS
OF TECHNIQUE 16

Henri-Pierre Bourget
Three studies to improve your portrait-painting	18
Guillaume de Saint-Pierre
Using perspective to construct the face	20
Henri-Pierre Bourget
The foundations of the portrait	22

PASTEL 28
José Luis Fuentetaja
Meeting the soul of the world	30
Louis Guillochon
The intimate details of hyper-realism	38
Florence Boisselle
Under the skin of a portrait	40
Sophie Burbaloff
Working in shades of black	42
Diane Rousseau
The dynamic portrait	44
Annick Macé
Berber cloak	46
Christine Dumont
Portraits of children	48
Michèle Duretête-Brodel
Ethiopian beauty	52
Michel Bordas
A luminous snapshot	56

WATERCOLOUR 60
The delicate art of the portrait
Peggi Habets, Keinyo White, David Lobenberg	62
Slawa Prischedko
Portrait of Francine	72
Olivia Quintin
A picture of youth in colour	74
Yann Lesacher
A monochrome portrait	76
Stéphanie Ledoux
A voyage to Vanuatu	78
Sonia Privat
Faces from here and there	80
François Beaumont
The eyes of the Touareg	86
David Lobenberg
Self-portrait with strong colours	88

DRAWING 90
William Wu
The perfect line	92
Wim Verhelst
Nap time	96
Henri-Pierre Bourget
A structural approach to the face	98
Line drawing portrait of a face	100
Tonal portrait using hatching and outlines	102
Portrait in three tonal values on Mi-Teintes paper	104
Isabelle Milloz
A vibrant portrait with collage	106
Shane Wolf
Charcoal, sanguine, graphite: getting the hang of the basics	108
Wim Verhelst
Reading time	116

OIL 118
David Kassan
Virtuoso portraitist	120
Shane Wolf
A self-portrait in 10 steps	126
Alain Jamet
Back to a traditional style	128
Aldo Balding
A scene using a limited palette	130
Elsa Laborieux
Portrait of Flor	132
Elisabeth Besnier
An explosion of laughter	134
The freedom of the palette knife	136

ACRYLIC 140
Diane Rousseau
Young girl with flowers	142
Corinne Tableau
Interpreting the look	146

Three portrait studies

The face at rest

THERE'S NO BETTER WAY TO LEARN THAN BY TRYING TO BRING OUT ALL THE EXPRESSIVENESS OF A CHILD'S FACE! BUT DON'T JUMP AHEAD: AN EXPRESSION IS BUILT UP BY FIRST PASSING THROUGH A VERY ESSENTIAL PHASE: THE FACE AT REST.

From one expression to another

The basic drawing (left-side) provides us with all the basic data which the facial expression (right-side) alters. Take a good look at your model: is the distortion general or local for each specific area? Is it symmetrical? Which zones remain unchanged? From a general point of view, you will see that the proportions of the face remain the same whilst the surface muscles move. Consider all of this in utmost detail before starting.

An expression is nothing more than a kind of distortion: taking the characteristics of a neutral expression as a basis, we will be able to analyse all of the movements that modify the features. Concentrate on the transformation process itself rather than the result.

The particularities of a child's face

The younger it is, the more a face lacks "focal points." And this is where the real challenge in doing a portrait of a child lies: the expressions are less stated, the features are smooth and shadows are less defined. So you will need to find the reference points that will help you to bring out the character of your model. For example, eyes define a face whereas the eyebrows contribute to the expression.

Know how to look...

Our tip: avoid making the shadows too dense; this will just harden the lines and make the face look older.

A wink of the eye

Only one side of the face is distorted here whilst the other half remains unchanged. In practice: Close the eye and raise it slightly. Compress the eyelid, it is smaller above than below. Raise the right-hand corner of the mouth and accentuate the fine lines.

Surprise

The distortion is symmetrical and has an effect on both the top of the face (the eyes are rounded) and the bottom (nose, mouth and chin). In practice: Lift the eyebrows, raise the upper eyelid without doing anything to the lower one. Curve the upper lip and lower the chin slightly.

Painting from live models

Don't be tempted to work from a photo: working directly from the expression, without the points of reference conferred by starting from the features as they are at rest, will result in a portrait that will appear clumsy and bare little resemblance. If your model is not willing to hold a pose (certainly not easy with a child!), take a photo of them with a neutral expression and work on the expression using the two images.

The smile

Here the features crinkle up (mouth and eyes) and extend towards the extremities of the face. In practice: Lengthen the eyes and partially hide the iris. Widen the mouth and reveal the teeth (but don't exaggerate them). Make the upper lip thinner and re-state the fine lines around the mouth and eyes.

Drawing can be a means to an end in itself just as much as it can be used for preparatory sketches for a work to be completed using other techniques. The word drawing itself actually covers a very broad variety of techniques, materials and supports; each with their own specific characteristics: graphite, charcoal, coloured pencils, hatching or line drawing... All of which artists love to explore to achieve the best possible results. Drawing is particularly well suited to the portrait, since it is good way to reproduce the form and volume of a face, the expression in the eyes or the tenderness of a family scene.

DRAWING

CONTENTS

William Wu
The perfect line	92
Wim Verhelst
Nap time	96
Henri-Pierre Bourget
A structural approach to the face	98
Line drawing portrait of a face	100
Tonal portrait using hatching and outlines	102
Three tonal values on Mi-Teintes paper	104
Isabelle Milloz
A vibrant portrait with collage	106
Shane Wolf
Charcoal, sanguine, graphite: getting the hang of the basics	108
Wim Verhelst
Reading time	116

William Wu

The perfect line

This Chinese graphic designer and artist has a strong passion for drawing to which he dedicates much of his free time. He tells us all about his approach to his art and his fascination with faces.

*Double portrait of Miss Kris. June 2012.
Chalk and charcoal on rice paper, 45 x 50 cm.*

In this second issue of The Art of Painting you will learn everything you need to know about painting portraits. 146 pages of advice, step-by-step demos, interviews and sketches to help you to paint captivating and life-like portraits. Whichever technique you prefer, you too can become a portrait maestro thanks to The Art of Painting.

THE BASICS

60 hints and tips showing you the essentials needed to make great works of art, from our team of top art instructors.

DRAWING

26 pages

explaining everything about drawing. Which materials to use? How to do perspectives and hatching...

INTERVIEWS

Some of the great artists of today invite you into their studios and reveal the secrets of their techniques.

TECHNIQUES

A wealth of techniques:

pastel, watercolour, oil, drawing and acrylic, all of the art techniques used in portrait painting!

STYLES

A look at all of the styles:

group and intimate portraits, close-ups, realism, expressive portraits... a wealth of possibilities.

PROGRESS MADE EASY

45 demos step by step to progress at your own pace and learn as you wish.

Thanks to THE ART OF PAINTING, portrait painting will have no more secrets for you!